Fire & police officials face Y2K with extra staff

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

The world will come to an end Friday night just after midnight.

Then again, maybe it won't. It depends on whom you believe.

Local government officials are taking the view that the "Y2K" problem won't be a big deal, but they'll have extra staff manning the police and fire departments just in case.

"The Yolo Co. Sheriff's Dept., and the police departments of Woodland, Davis, Winters and West Sacramento are all going to a maximum staffing plan," said Lt. Bruce Muramoto of the West Sacramento Police Dept. "Starting Thursday, we're going to 12 hour shifts. We anticipate having 16 officers on duty between Friday at 6 p.m. and Saturday at 6 a.m. -- almost double what we normally have."

Muramoto said that the police department is not expecting a failure of their communications system, problems with the 9-1-1 system, or any other significant problems affecting local safety when the clock rolls over Friday night to 1/1/2000.

"What we're hearing right now is good," he commented. "The energy grid will be good, the telephones will work. We don't anticipate anything extraordinary, but we'll be prepared to deal with whatever comes up."

As a precaution, the city will set up its "emergency operations center" -- a collection of department heads with a communication hub -- at the police department beginning Thursday evening. Police, fire, public works and other city personnel will be as ready as they can be to deal with any local problems.

Muramoto also noted that, as a Pacific time zone city, West Sacramento will have the advantage of watching most of the rest of the world and the rest of the U.S. cross into the year 2000 ahead of it.

"If anything is happening, we will have a 'heads-up' on any kind of problem occurring," said Muramoto. West Sacramento will have a 23-hour "lead time" after watching countries such as New Zealand show the way into the year 2000.

Fire Chief Frederick Postel reports that he will have an additional dozen personnel on duty New Year's Eve, including all management personnel and "a couple of additional investigation cars, to check out building alarms and so forth." The department will also staff heavily the following Monday, when many businesses first gear up for work in the new year, and potentially discover problems with elevators, alarms and other mechanisms.

"Y2K" is an abbreviation for "Year 2000," and the "Y2K" bug is feared for the threat that it might fool some computers worldwide. Many older computers are wired to "assume" that the first two digits of any year are "19," and allow input into only the last two digits. Thus, when 2000 comes around Saturday, they may operate as if it is really the year 1900. Computer confusion could result in unprepared computers and software.

This may, some fear, affect countless computerized and automated functions -- from air traffic control to power production to elevator operation. Billions have been spent in the U.S. to make business and personal computers "Y2K compliant."

Yolo County Supervisor Mike McGowan reports that some of that money has been spent in Yolo County to ensure the New Year brings no special "Y2K" problems.

"I think we're looking fine," he said of Yolo County's Y2K preparedness. "We've been hammering on it all year long. We're advised by both our own employees and our emergency JPA (joint powers authority) that we, the county, along with the subagencies and fire agencies are all in good shape."

"I asked the guy at emergency services, 'What are you really anticipating?,' " added McGowan. "He said it's the human factor -- like if a drunk hits a power pole and the power goes down, and people blame Y2K and go wild or something."

Another way people may create their own Y2K problem, say other experts, is by lifting up their phones just after midnight just to see if the phones still work. A huge number of people doing that could cause the phones to go out -- even if Y2K, as expected, causes no problem. Residents are asked not to unnecessarily use their phones close to midnight for that reason.

Local school superintendent Dr. Dennis Kelleher could not immediately be reached for comment, but he did write a letter to local school families and staff addressing Y2K.

"I want to assure you that the Washington Unified School District has reviewed our computer software and hardware and made appropriate contingency plans," he said. Assuming services such as water, gas, electricity and telephones are unaffected, the district plans on business as usual on Monday, Jan. 3.

Kelleher advises residents to tune in to KFBK (AM 1530) or any local TV news station in the "unlikely event that one or more of these services is not available."

Santa's helpers

Just before Christmas, Leonicia Bastidas (center) of West Sacramento received a surprise visit from Ed Remon of the West Sacramento Fire Department. The WSFD made holiday house calls with presents on behalf of the California School Boards Association, whose members have collected toys for local families every year since 1990. The West Sacramento-based association has held its toy drive in conjunction with the West Sacramento Christmas Basket Project. (Photo courtesy of W. Sac. Redev. Agency)

About Town:

First date in the Great Depression; still going strong today

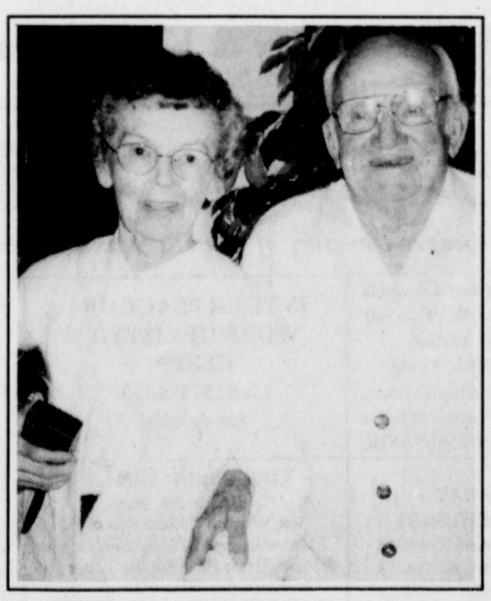
By Daryl Fisher
Features Editor

Longtime West Sacramento residents Arne and Dorothy Anderson met at a church function in Fresno in 1933 and it wasn't long before they were going to shows and spending as much time together as possible.

"I took a liking to him right away," remembered Dorothy. "He was such a nice young man and he also spoke Danish beautifully."

"Dorothy was very pretty and she also had a wonderful personality," recalled Arne. "We started dating in the middle of the Great Depression and no one was really sure if it was ever going to end, but we decided to take a chance and get married anyway and it sure turned out to be the best decision I ever made."

Arne and Dorothy were married in Easton, California during the Christmas season of 1933 and shortly thereafter they moved to Maxwell where they opened their first butcher shop. Arne had been a butcher by trade since the age of 18 and the success of his first shop led to a second one in Arbuckle. Dorothy, who had already finished her training to become a nurse also became very skilled in cutting meat and working behind the counter.



DOROTHY & ARNE ANDERSON

In 1937, the Andersons moved to North Sacramento and along with Arne's brother, Egon, they started Anderson Brothers Trucking. They worked in West Sacramento for Capitol Rice Mills and California Dehydrators, and in 1940 they moved their business to South River Road and built a shop there which is still standing. They also became grain brokers, dealing in wheat, barley and rice biproducts. In 1941, Arne and his brother became partners with Frank Smith and Thor Hansen and together they constructed a grain mill that was very successful all the way up to its sale in 1958.

"We made a little money on the grain itself," explained Arne, "but the real profit came from trucking it to where it was needed. I had wonderful partners and I really enjoyed the grain business."

During this period of time, Dorothy worked for Sutter Maternity Hospital in the baby nursery until she left to stay at home to care for an ill son.

"I had always wanted to be a nurse ever since I could remember," said Dorothy, "and I really loved my work at the hospital. Whether it was taking care of the elderly, which I also did for awhile, or working with newborn babies, it was all very rewarding."

In 1953, Arne and Dorothy moved to West Sacramento to be closer to the family business and in 1956 they built the Westward Ho trailer park on West Capitol Avenue. It started out as a five-space trailer park, but by 1960 it had grown to 60 spaces. Although they sold the trailer park in 1961, they kept a small piece of land in the back of the park for their home and they lived there until September 10, 1999.

After retiring, Arne stayed very active in the community through his work with West Sacramento Kiwanis, which he helped found in 1948, and at one point he also ran for County Supervisor, losing by less than a hundred votes. He has continued to coordinate the Kiwanis Christmas Basket project, buying all the groceries and helping with the delivery of the baskets, and he also plays an important part in their spring pancake breakfast fundraiser.

"Arne and Dorothy are fabulous people," said Dee Gorman of Gorman's Stationery. "Arne not only does the Kiwanis Christmas Basket every year, but he also helped bring Our Lady of Grace Church to West Sacramento and I think he even bought the front doors for them. He and Dorothy will help anyone in need regardless of race, religion or whatever and they are truly two of the nicest people you would ever want to meet."

Dorothy retired in 1974 after another lengthy stint at Sutter Hospital where she worked in the nursery for premature babies and this year she and Arne decided to move into Margaret McDowell Manor Senior Center on Merkley Avenue.

"We really love our new apartment," said Arne. "It has everything we need and I think we're really going to like it here. Plus when you get to be my age (Arne will be 88 in a few months) it gets a little harder to cut the mustard and to tell you the truth, I was getting pretty tired of picking up all the leaves at the old place anyway."

"My parents always set a wonderful example for me and my brother and sister," said Janet Anderson, Arne and Dorothy's youngest daughter, "and not only have they always been there for us over the years, but they have also been extremely supportive of their friends and their community. Plus their very special relationship is still going strong after 66 years of marriage, and just a month or so ago, my mother had shaving cream all over her face because my dad had kissed her while he was shaving. They are simply the best parents and role models a person could ever hope to have."

Arne and Dorothy have three children; Skip, who is a retired businessman, Francis, who is a homemaker, and Janet, who works for Design Services at the University of California at Davis. They also have 11 grandchildren, eight great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren.

Despite those signs, fireworks aren't legal

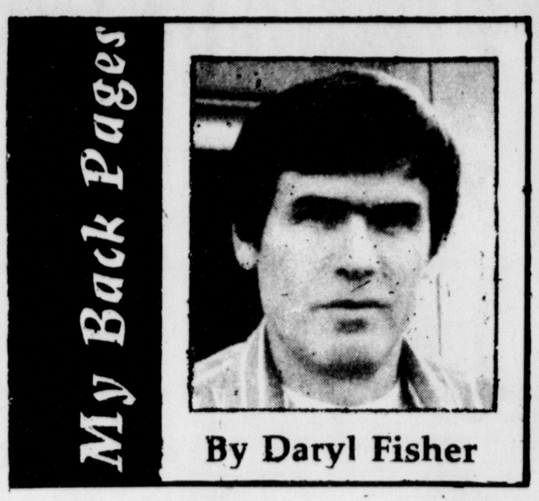
The use of fireworks by members of the public isn't legal in West Sacramento -- even on New Year's Eve.

The West Sacramento Police Dept. reports that someone has placed signs around town which indicate that "fireworks [are] state approved legal for New Years, Dec. 28-31, 1999" (sic). The signs have been removed.

In fact, West Sacramento has a city ordinance which prohibits the manufacture, possession, sales or discharge of both "dangerous" and "safe and sane" fireworks in the city. Exceptions are made for permitted public displays such as the annual Independence Day/BridgeFest show.

'Tis the season: Time for New Year's Resolutions

Editor's note: Daryl is taking the holidays off from column writing, but since he didn't manage to keep any of the New Years resolutions he made last year, here they are again.



An old friend of mine who dropped by for a little visit over the holidays turned out to have a number of interesting suggestions for this column. "You know what I would do if I was writing the darn thing?" he said with conviction.

"What?" I asked politely.

"Well, to begin with, I'd talk more about politics. You hardly ever mention all the crap that's going on in Washington, D.C.. For instance, you should take a clear, no-nonsense stand on Bill Clinton's lack of morals and then write about it for a good month or so. I bet that would really fire up your readers."

"But I don't think I want my readers fired up," I tried to explain. "Plus I'm afraid I don't really care what happens to Bill Clinton one way or the other."

"You're kidding?"

"Nope. If he goes away, then Al Gore will be president, and he seems like a pretty nice guy. And if he stays, right-wing Republicans will keep dropping like flies, so I figure the country wins either way."

Fifteen or twenty minutes further into our conversation, my friend did hit upon an idea that seemed to have some potential. "1999 is just around the corner," he said, "so why don't you write a column about your New Years resolutions?"

"But I don't think I have any New Years resolutions," I said, quickly searching my mind to see if I had a few buried somewhere.

"But all the big-time newspaper columnists talk about their resolutions every single year," my friend assured me. "Couldn't you just make up a few? I mean, who's going to know the difference?"

"Well," I had to admit, "it would definitely beat writing about Bill Clinton. Thanks for the suggestion. I'll see what I can come up with.

New Years resolution #1: I will no longer spend half-an-hour every morning trying to wake up my teenage sons so they won't be late for school. If they want to spend all night playing video games and grow up to be as dumb as trees, so be it.

New Years resolution #2: I will try to stop lying about my age. I mean, I'm going to be 50 years old in another five or six years and I'm just going to have to own up to it.

New Years resolution #3: I will stop pretending that if you eat something and no one sees you do it, it has no calories.

New Years resolution #4: I won't go to any more high school reunions. I mean, how many times must someone be expected to smile and say hi to people who used to make your life miserable?

New Years resolution #5: I will start wearing cords again, if I can find a store that still sells them.

New Years resolution #6: I will stop suffering fools gladly, even those I'm related to.

New Years resolution #7: I will stop taking every opportunity to save money, the idea being that it will give the kids one less thing to fight about in the future.

New Years resolution #8: I will break down and purchase a second pair of glasses. It's ridiculous to spend more time trying to remember where I left the darn things than I do using them.

New Years resolution #9: I will insist that my kids keep their rooms clean or move out of the house, and that goes for my 12-year-old, too.

New Years resolution #10: I'm going to call the telephone company and get rid of whatever it is that allows my daughter to *69 people who really didn't want to talk to us in the first place.

New Years resolution #11: I'm not going to insist on my kids knowing what they want to be when they grow up until I have a better handle on that myself.

New Years resolution #12: I'm going to pay more attention to fads. I read somewhere that Madonna and ex-Spice Girl Geri Halliwell have both decided to start practicing celibacy and really get into housework, and those are the kinds of trends that a guy should be aware of.

New Years resolution #13: I will try to find a way to wash my dog that ends up with him wetter than me.

New Years resolution #14: I'm going to try and become a much better speller. I mean, there's simply no excuse for getting words like Lebanese and Lesbian mixed up.

New Years resolution #15: I'm going to give up on trying to appreciate rap music. I think it's best to just admit that what little musical taste I have begins and ends with Bob Dylan and leave it at that.

New Years resolution #16: And finally, in 1999, instead of making any grand plans or dwelling too much on the past and all those things I can't change, I think I'll just try to spend more time reflecting on maybe the most important truth of them all -- that it's all free time.

Happy New Year!

Obituary —

James "Scud" Marshall passed away in his sleep on Christmas morning from complications of pneumonia from a stroke suffered on August 13, 1999. He was born December 16, 1916 ,and in his 83 years, accomplished much in his life and made contributions to his community and was very active socially and in business.

Preceded in death by his parents Jesse C. and Lenora Adele Marshall, he is survived by his loving wife of 58 years, Yvonne Yelland Marshall, his sister, Oneva Pylman of Stockton, and his four children and their spouses: Jim Marshall and wife Connie of Portland, Oregon; Kathleen Church and husband Ron of Spokane, Washington; Richard Marshall and wife Marlene of Clarksburg; and Joan McClure and husband Jack of Rocklin. Nine loving grandchildren are: Erika (Marshall) and husband Rhett Lee, Christopher Marshall and wife Jessica, Sierra Church, David Church, Rebecca Church, Jason Marshall, Adam Marshall and wife Christina, Michael McClure and Matthew McClure.

Scud was raised and educated in Yolo County. Born in Woodland, his family moved to Clarksburg in 1923 where he attended Clarksburg Elementary School. He furthered his education at the University of California, Davis, where he earned his BS in Animal Husbandry with a minor in Chemistry. Following college, Scud returned to Clarksburg and worked on his father's farm. In 1940, he bought out his father and continued to farm tomatoes, sugar beets, alfalfa, seed corn and small grains for 25 years. In 1950, he consolidated his farming by buying 350 acres on Babel Slough in Clarksburg and built his family home. In the early 1960's, in partnership with James Yelland and Darrell Merwin, he started a business of custom green chopping alfalfa and delivering it to Delta Dehydrating. Furthering his innovative approach to agriculture, in 1969 he formed a partnership with Warren Bogle and was an early wine grape grower in the Clarksburg Appellation Region. In 1982, he planted one of the only fig orchards in Yolo County. Finally, in 1997, he entered a long-term agreement with Wilson Farms, Inc., to continue planting the farm acreage to wine grapes.

He and his wife enjoyed traveling throughout the world, including all of the United States, the British Isles, Scotland, and the Pacific Islands, especially Hawaii.

His life will be celebrated at a memorial service and reception to be held Wednesday, December 29 at Faith Presbyterian Church, 625 Florin Road, Sacramento. In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to Faith Presbyterian Church; West Sacramento Rotary Scholarship Fund, PO Box 288 West Sacramento, CA 95691; Yolo Hospice, PO Box 1014, Davis, CA 95617; or Clarksburg Community Church, PO Box Clarksburg, CA 95612.

SPORTS

The Sports Insider

By Richard Novoa

The Sacramento Kings (15-10) host Boston on Tuesday night before they head out for another road trip starting out on Wednesday night in Seattle (ch.31– 7 p.m.). The Kings will spend the New Year at home before they pack up and head East to play on Tuesday, January 4, 2000 in Cleveland. The year 2000! I guess I'm not Y2K compliant, because it just doesn't look right when I write 2000. Anyway, the King will travel to Toronto and Boston before they return to the friendly confines of the Arco Arena to play Indiana on January 9, 2000.

The 49ers fumbled away the game on Sunday night before a national audience on ESPN, losing to the Washington Redskins 26-20 in overtime. The 49ers fans, who witnessed their last home game of the century, may have seen Jerry Rice's last game in a 49ers uniform. Rice, who is scheduled to earn around $6 million next season is not going to retire. San Francisco will have to decide if they are going to bring back Rice and Young. Both players are 38-years old and with Young's $8.1 million salary these players would put the 49ers about $18 million over the salary cap. Young has not played since sustaining a concussion on September 27 in Arizona. The 49ers (4-11) close out their worst season in 20 years with a Monday night game in Atlanta (4-11). The loser of this game gets a higher draft pick. Go Falcons!

The Oakland Raiders, whose playoff hopes went down the drain with Buffalo's win over New England, lost to San Diego 23-20. It's wait until next year for the Raiders again as owner Al Davis takes the City to court. The Raiders are trying to break their long-term lease with the City of Oakland, claiming the City promised sell-out crowds to increase the team revenue. It's very hard to figure out the Raiders, who beat Tampa Bay 45-0, then lose the next week to the Chargers. I wonder why they don't sell-out their games? Is it the team performance or the $81 price tag for a ticket! The Raiders can close out the century as spoilers in Kansas City, as the Chiefs battle for the division title.

The NFC playoff race is going down to the last week of the season. The Redskins captured the East title with their win over the Niners. The Central Division championship will be decided next Sunday but three teams, Tampa Bay, Minnesota and Detroit have qualified for the playoffs. The remaining two wild-card spots are still open for either Dallas, New York, Green Bay or Carolina. The Rams (13-2) won the West and have the home field advantage throughout the playoffs.

In the AFC, Seattle tied Kansas City for the division lead at 9-6. If the Seahawks win their finale game in New York against the Jets, they win the division. Tennessee, Jacksonville, and Indianapolis are still battling for the home-field advantage while Buffalo backs into the playoffs with Miami's loss on Monday night. The remaining two playoffs spots will go to Seattle, Kansas City or Miami. Miami will make the playoffs with a loss by Seattle or Kansas City.

I lost all three of my weekly picks dropping me under .500 (18 wins, 19 losses, 1 tie) for the first since week one, when I picked three losers! Last week I selected three teams (Dallas, Oakland, and Miami) that needed a win to make the playoffs! Well, so much for playoff motivation! This week I will try to break into the "New Millennium" with a winning record by picking eight games (4 pro & 4 college). Well, here goes nothing!

In the college bowl games, I like Florida (-1) over Michigan (Citrus Bowl), Stanford (+11) to cover against Wisconsin (Rose Bowl), Tennessee (+ 4 ½) over Nebraska (Fiesta Bowl) and Florida St. (-5 ½) to win the National Championship over Virginia Tech (Sugar Bowl). In the wild & crazy NFL, the Giants (+7) over Dallas, Green Bay (-7) to win over Arizona, Tampa Bay (-4) to clinch the Central Division over Chicago and I'll the close the regular season the way I started with the 49ers (+7) over the Falcons on Monday night football! Happy New Year!!!

See ya next year!

Consider a classified!

A classified ad in the News-Ledger is still West Sacramento's biggest bargain. Just turn in your ad of up to 25 words along with payment of $3.50 by Monday to be in next week's paper!

River Cats hire front office staff

The Sacramento River Cats baseball team has announced four key new front office personnel, as it prepares for the Spring, 2000, opening at Raley Field.

Kristi Goldby is now director of guest services; Gary W. Phillips is director of ticket operations; Scott Gephart is manager of ticket operations; and Dale Haynes is general manager of food service operations.

Goldby arrives in Sacramento from the Oregon Arena Corporation, shere she was personnel coordinator for the guest services department at the Portland Trail Blazers NBA arena. Her responsibilities included hiring staff and scheduling approximately 300 part-time employees for events at the Rose Garden Arena and Portland Memorial Coliseum. She had previously worked for the Phoenix Firebirds and San Francisco Giants organizations.

Phillips brings nearly six years of experience working for the Oakland Athletics Baseball Company, where he started as ticket valet in 1994 and advanced to ticket operations manager.

Gephart brings nine years' experience with the Golden State Warriors in Oakland, where he worked in the ticket office and for the team's sponsor services department. He has also worked for the San Jose Giants minor league team and the Coca-Cola Company of San Jose.

Haynes has more than 20 years of food service experience, previously serving as general manager for ARAMARK at the San Jose Arena, where he planned and coordinated food services for several major events including the National Hockey League playoffs in 1998 and 1999 and the 1999 NCAA women's basketball finals. He has also managed food service contracts at the Oakland Coliseum and Candlestick Park.

OPINION

News-Ledger Editorial

1999's top news stories

The biggest story of 1999 for West Sacramento?

Probably the baseball stadium now under construction on the city's Broderick-area riverfront, near South River Road and the Tower Bridge. The Triple A-level stadium will be home to the River Cats (formerly the Vancouver Canadians), which are the top farm team for the Oakland A's. Sacramento and West Sacramento fought bitterly to land the stadium site, and West Sacramento -- which had the better real estate -- won.

That was a surprise. But what was even more of a surprise was that in February, a $40 million bond deal was announced to pay for the project in West Sacramento. The bulk of the bonds were to be guaranteed by Sacramento County!

Without even the first batter in the on-deck circle at the new ballpark, the stadium has already become a source of pride for West Sacramentans. It was quite a show to watch the project proceed from a "pipe dream" in 1998 to a "longshot" in early 1999 to "imminent and under construction" in the last few months.

The second biggest story of the year was the passage of a $17 million school bond effort, designed to help revamp local schools. Previous attempts at passing "bigger and shinier" school bonds failed, but Measure R passed on the November ballot and is expected to attract an additional $20 million in state money for local school repairs. With a clever campaign and a low-turnout election, the ballot measure passed with a nearly four-to-one margin, despite a fractured local education community.

As third biggest story, the News-Ledger votes for last month's vandalism of city hall.

Unknown vandals got into the privately-owned building and turned on the water on upper floors, severely damaging the building and a lot of city equipment, and sending local officials scurrying for an interim city hall to replace the interim city hall which was damaged. Meanwhile, plans for a long-term facility roll ahead, with completion expected by 2001.

That act of destruction hit a lot of West Sacramentans where they lived. People locally were shocked and appalled.

What's ahead in 2000?

Probably not much in the way of a Y2K crisis, which should turn out to be a local let-down.

Expect to see a quietly functioning city government in 2000. There isn't a clear majority, or a spectacular agend, a or divisive issue (perhaps next year will bring one?). But if there is an "odd man out" on the council, it would have to be Jim Cahill who, for better or worse, doesn't quite fit with the other four.

Barring a recession, expect to see serious growth in Southport. There will be some skirmishes about just how that growth occurs, as existing residents question the quality of development plans and how they relate to current neighborhoods and the Southport Framework Plan.

The school board is split and will continue to be interesting. The district management's standards for professionalism are low. Repairs financed by the bond will give local schools a shot in the arm, but major changes in the quality of local schools won't occur until the district is made up primarily of families who value their kids' education.

As for the rest? Whatever else we have on tap for 2000 -- well, we'll just have to wait and see.

Happy New Year!

Letters to the Editor

Get right with God

As the new year approaches, many of us are starting to make New Year's resolutions such as, "I've got to quit smoking," or "I need to quit drinking" or "I really need to start my diet." But how many of us are really examining ourselves, really looking close, and thinking, "am I right with God? Do I have the Lord in my life? Am I walking daily with my Lord?"

If not, then maybe the year 2000 would be an excellent time to renew your spirit with the word of God. Make this your priority resolution. Accept God's greatest gifts. Just bow your head and realize God's greatest gift for you. Believe in the Lord Jesus Christ, and thour shalt be saved (Acts 16:31).

My church has a vision for the New Year, and that's to try and reach every home in West Sacramento with the Gospel of Jesus Christ. We're starting some great things for the coming year, such as a daytime Bible study on Thursday afternoons at 1 p.m., special guest speakers, winter Bible study Jan. 12-16. Keep watching the event section for upcoming dates and events.

If you haven't found a church home, we extend an open invitation to everyone to come and worship with us, making the New Year a spiritual beginning for you.

We're also having a New Year's eve celebration, just praising the Lord and good fellowship from 9 p.m. to midnight. Bring your favorite snack and join us. Come get acquainted.

Again, we welcome you to First Southern Baptist Church, 2124 Michigan Blvd., West Sacramento, at the corner of Maple and Michigan. Message phone is 371-2111. Pastor is Michael Root. Sunday school for all ages is 9:30 a.m.; morning worship is 11 a.m., with children's church and nursery available. Sun-

NOTICE TO ADOPT A NEGATIVE DECLARATION

A Mitigated Negative Declaration has been prepared for an amendment to the West Sacramento General Plan, Southport Framework Plan and Zoning Map to change the land use designation of nine acres of property south of the corner of Jefferson Boulevard, Davis Road and Gregory Avenue from Rural Estates to Neighborhood Commercial. This Mitigated Negative Declaration has been prepared to address the potential environmental impacts of the above land use and zoning change. The Mitigated Negative Declaration concludes that with the implementation of recommended mitigation measures, there will be no significant adverse impacts on the environment.

Copies of the Mitigated Negative Declaration are on file in the office of the West Sacramento Community Development Department at 1951 South River Road, West Sacramento, CA 95691 (telephone: 916/373-5854).

Any affected or interested parties may appear at the January 19th, 2000 City Council meeting and comment on the Mitigated Negative Declaration and/or the proposed project.

The West Sacramento Planning Commission will hold a hearing on their recommendation to the City Council on the issue and the Mitigated Negative Declaration on January 6, 2000 at 1350 Halyard Drive, West Sacramento, California at 6:00 p.m.

The West Sacramento City Council will consider adoption of the Mitigated Negative Declaration on January 19, 2000 in the City Council chambers located at 1350 Halyard Drive, West Sacramento, California, at 7:00 p.m., or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard.

Police log

Dec. 20, 2:30 p.m.

An E St. woman told officers that the father of her child had violated a restraining order by sending the daughter Christmas cards. A report was forwarded to the D.A.'s office for evaluation.

Dec. 20, 9:50 p.m.

Near Jefferson and Devon, a security guard reported having heard voices nearby threatening to "take him out" and having heard gunshots in the area. He said he was being followed and harassed by members of a gang as he worked at various construction sites.

Dec. 20, 11:55 p.m.

A Chaparral woman said the father of her child twisted her arm, threw her to the floor and told her she "needed to die" and was "going to die now." He prevented her from leaving the residence during the night. Police found him at the residence and arrested him.

Dec. 22, 7:49 a.m.

An Evergreen Ave. man reported a car stolen from the residence.

Dec. 22, 8:10 a.m.

An unknown suspect smashed the rear windows of three cars belonging to one victim on Fremont Blvd. A similar incident was also reported on a nearby street.

Dec. 22, 10 a.m.

A Goldeneye Ct. woman reported being waked by her car alarm at 2:30 a.m. She found the vehicle's lock pried open but nothing appeared to be missing.

Dec. 23, 1:28 a.m.

Near Poplar and Michigan, an officer saw a vehicle speeding and attempted to stop it. The driver pulled over and fled on foot through a school, leaving the vehicle to roll into a pole and suffer minor damage. Police arrested a 17-year old male passenger. The car was determined to be stolen, and the victim later reported that she had $17,000 in it when it was taken.

Dec. 24, 10 p.m.

On Fernwood St., an officer obtained a report on a two-vehicle, hit and run accident with minor damage.

Dec. 24, 9:15 p.

On Jasmine Ave., a resident reported that a 46-year old acquaintence borrowed his car to go to the bank and hadn't been heard from since. The suspect was on parole and had a history of drug abuse.

Dec. 25, 8:45 a.m.

A B St. woman reported her 37-year old missing and said he was an avid card player. She later called police to report he was located in Sparks, Nevada.

Dec. 25, 2:10 a.m.

On North Harbor Blvd., a man reported that someone fired two gunshots, possibly from a shotgun, from a passing sport utility vehicle. Police found no evidence.

Dec. 25, 3:34 p.m.

A woman reported that while using a pay phone on Riverpointe Dr., she saw a man standing next to his car masturbating. The man left in the car.

Dec. 25, 4:50 p.m.

An officer contacted two juveniles at the door of a residence. A consent search turned up a drug pipe on one. The 15-year old was cited and released to the custody of his mother.

Dec. 25, 7:58 p.m.

Near West Capitol and Westacre, an officer stopped a car with a headlight out, and found the driver had no license. The driver was cited and released, and the vehicle was towed.

Dec. 27, 9:15 a.m.

Officers contacted a 52-year old transient man at Terminal Dr. and arrested him for a felony warrant.

What's new at the Turner library

From Elise McCallan

The Arthur F. Turner Library in West Sacramento has received the following new books:

"Fooling with Words: A Celebration of Poets and Their Craft" by Bill Moyers.

"The Plutonium Files: America's Secret Medical Experiments in the Cold War" by Eileen Welsome.

"First Son: George W. Bush and the Bush Family Dynasty" by Bill Minutaglio.

"Hillary's Choice" by Gail Sheehy.

"Battling the Inner Dummy: the Craziness of Apparently Normal People" by David L. Weiner with Gilbert M. Hefter, M.D.

"The Biology of Success" by Robert Arnot, M.D.

Fiction books by the following popular authors will be arriving in January: V.C. Andrews, Sandra Brown, Lilian Jackson Braun, W.E.B. Griffin, Tony Hillerman, John Lescroart, Michael Connelly, and Steve Martini.

Look for changes in the Young Adult section of the library. The fiction and non-fiction books are being consolidated into one section again.

Parenting

The Yolo Family Service Agency will offer an eight-week course for parents mandated by the court to attend a parenting group. The course wil be held on Tuesdays, Jan. 25 to March 14, from 5:30 to 7 p.m. at the Woodland United Way office, 1017 Main St. Cost is $120 per individual or $176 per couple. For information, call (530) 662-2211 or (916) 375-1254.

Senior Spin

Senior Spin, the West Sacramento Senior Center's take-off on the Wheel of Fortune TV game show, starts its sixth round of playoff contests in January. New contestants are Jane Speed and Jim Yarbrough. Dee Bowen is host and Jennie McNeil is "Vana Banana." The show repeats on Charter Cable TV Channel 21 daily at 6:30 p.m. plus Wednesdays at 7 p.m.

Kids of divorce

The Yolo Family Service Agency will offer "Kids' Turn," a workshop for families with kids who are undergoing separation or divorce. The six-week workshop will be held in Woodland and Davis, with courses beginning in February and in April. Cost to parents is on a sliding scale and kids are free. For information, call (530) 662-2211 or (916) 375-1254.

Volunteer for youth

Responsible, caring adults are sought to volunteer their time to support, guide and encourage young people. Training is provided. Mentor training is scheduled for Jan. 11 from 6 to 9 p.m. in the Davis Public Library, and Thurs., Jan. 27, from 6 to 9 p.m. at the Turner Library in West Sacramento. For information, call (530) 669-3285.

Y2K issues

The cities of Woodland, Davis and West Sacramento have joined Yolo County in producing a series of short programs on Y2K issues. The programs will be aired on Charter Cable Channel 21 on Dec. 30 and Dec. 31 at 7 p.m.

Little League

West Sacramento Little League will hold registration for players age 5-16 on Saturdays, Jan. 8, 15 & 22, from 10 a.m. to noon, and on Wednesdays, Jan. 12 & 19, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m., at the Fireman's Hall, 1966 Park Blvd. Fees are $40 (ages 5-6), $50 (7-12) and $60 (13-16). A late fee will be charged to all players registering after these sessions. Due to planned interleague play in the upper divisions, it is very important that players age 13-16 do not register late; the number of teams in each division needs to be planned. Players age 16 are eligible for Senior League and are encouraged to register. Tryouts (ages 8-12) will be held at Memorial Park Saturdays Feb. 5 & 12 beginning at 10 a.m.

Holiday air travel

Avoid traffic jams to the Sacramento International Airport this holiday season by taking Yolobus. Fares are only $1 each way, and Yolobus also connects with Sacramento's Amtrak and Greyhound stations. For schedule information, call (530) 666-2877.

Tipsy Taxi

The Center (East Yolo Information Center for Alcohol & Other Drug Abuse) announces a New Year's Eve "Tipsy Taxi" service, lasting from 9 p.m. New Year's Eve to 3 a.m. New Year's Day. If you have beer drinking and find you need a ride, don't drive. Call 372-3360 for a complimentary local lift.

Harp concert

Randy Parris will perform a harp concert at the Arthur F. Turner Branch Library, 1212 Merkley Ave., at 3 p.m. on Sun., Jan. 16. Traditional favorites, as well as selections from his "The Dream Working" CD will be featured.

The concert is free and refreshments will be served. Sponsored by the East Yolo Friends of the Library.

County agency helps employers find just the right new hire

From Steve Roberts
Yolo Co. Dept. of Employment & Soc. Services

Something new is occurring in Yolo County that will change things for the better for employers searching for new employees, according to Alex Laiewski, director of Employment and Training Services of Yolo County Department of Employment and Social Services.

"Preparing people to find and secure jobs where their special skills, education and experience can be utilized to the fullest advantage is an extremely important achievement that takes place daily in our department, Laiewski said. He explained that even though the department is new, it is made up of two newly merged organizations that have been effectively serving the people of Yolo County for many years.

"Through action by the Yolo County Board of Supervisors, the Community Partnership Agency (CPA) and the Department of Social Services (DSS) in the county merged," he said. Laiewski added, "We are open to the public and there are no fees or charges for the majority of our services."

While the two people-service organizations worked well together in the past, the newly created department is focused on an even closer relationship between staff members who, now, work for one organization.

When Yolo County Administrator, Vic Singh, reported to the board of supervisors, he said that melding the both departments provides flexibility to use resources to effectively assist the new departments' joint customers. It allows the public to obtain employment services, training, public assistance, and social services that leads to employment and self-reliance, he said. Local employers, as well as job seekers, can continue to utilize employee recruitment, screening, placement and training services provided by the former CPA.

Laiewski is encouraging business owners, managers and supervisors to take advantage of the merge by utilizing the department's One-Stop Career Development Center in West Sacramento. "Employers need only call our 'Employer Hotline' at 375-6248," he said. "Job seekers who wish to use our facilities and services are encouraged to call our 'Career Counseling Hotline' at 375-6335." Laiewski said, "folks who wish to obtain general information or a description of the expanded services offered by the new department, should call 375-6300."
